INSTRUCTION PDF/A

In order to ensure that theses in digital form, i.e. the submitted PDF files will be usable also in the future, PDF documents shall be created according to the PDF/A standard. PDF/A is an electronic document file format based on PDF that provides a mechanism for representing electronic documents in a manner that preserves their visual appearance over time, independent of the tools and systems used for long-term preservation.

The PDF/A standard provides:

- all fonts have to be embedded in the PDF document.
- transparent objects are forbidden.
- make sure that the metadata such as author, creation date are included in the file.
- make sure the PDF is not password protected.

Creating a PDF/A file can easily be done with almost any program adapted for generating PDF files, but it is necessary to ensure the correct setting of Options.

Create PDF/A from Word 2007:

For this purpose the plugin "SaveAsPDF" is required. If it is not installed, it can be downloaded free from charge from the Microsoft website. Then you can start creating the PDF/A files as follows:

- click "Save as"
- choose "PDF" as file type (if there are two menu items „PDF“ and „PDF or XPS“, choose the latter.)
- In "Options" make sure that the "ISO19005-1-compliant (PDF/A)" check box is selected.

Attention: If then the newly created PDF file is opened in Acrobat/Adobe Reader (this will happen automatically if the "Open file after publishing" checkbox is active) a blue bar comes up indicating that you are viewing the document in PDF/A mode.

(Other options for converting Word to PDF, also PDF/A, are PDF Creator and Ghostscript.)

Create PDF/A from Open Office/Libre Office:

- click "Export as PDF"
- an Options window pops up; make sure that the PDF/A check box is selected.
(pre-selected in case of the tested Open-Office-Version 3.2.0)

Create PDF/A from PDFLaTeX:

Please note: It is essential to download the linked file PdfA-suppl.zip which is at the end of the section "Introduction"; it includes auxiliary files which are needed for the successful conversion of the examples as well as one's own PDF/A documents.
